A Message from Fr. Mike...

War vs. Peace

This past weekend, the Church celebrated the Solemnity of the Assumption of Mary. Traditionally, this has been one of the most important celebrations on the Church calendar. But in world history, August 15 is also very important for a different reason.

On August 15, 1945, the Empire of Japan surrendered to the Allied Nations, thus bringing about the official end of World War II. It was a day of rejoicing, the day that peace finally returned to the world. VE day (Victory in Europe [Germany's surrender]—May 8) and VJ day (Victory in Japan) were seen as days of hope, where things could begin anew. Confetti rained down in the streets; people rejoiced. There was now a chance for a better tomorrow.

But while both VE and VJ day were days of celebration, they were bittersweet. It is impossible to reflect on the Second World War without coming to terms with the staggering, almost incomprehensible loss of life. Over 60 million people lost their lives during the war, including the 10 million people who lost their lives in the Holocaust, a number that includes over 6 million Jewish people. Even Japan's surrender took place only days after two Nuclear bombs were dropped on the country, in Hiroshima and Nagasaki, killing over 200,000 civilians. The atrocities committed by countries on both sides is appalling, and another reason why World War II is one of the most horrific events in human history.

It has now been 75 years since World War II mercifully came to an end. It is very easy for us in the modern world to think that we have come a long way, that things are better now. But of course, we are fighting in a war right now. Every conflict since the beginning of the 20th Century was directly a result of what happened before it. After the defeat of Nazi Germany, the United States and the Soviet Union, two former allies, became engaged in a 45 year "Cold War" that brought the world to within a hairsbreadth of total nuclear annihilation on multiple occasions. The US has also been involved in wars in Korea, Vietnam, the Persian Gulf, Afghanistan, and Iraq, along with several other smaller conflicts around the world.

War is often glorified, or even romanticized, in pop culture, and this is especially true for World War II. The problem, of course, is that war is not romantic, or glory-filled, or nice, or positive in any way. We talk about "winners" and "losers" of war, but the reality is that there are really just "survivors" and "casualties" in war; nobody is truly "victorious". We have seen, time and time again, that conflict only leads to more conflict; that violence leads to more violence. This is why Jesus calls us to be people of peace, to "turn the other cheek", to "love your enemies", to not answer violence with more violence.

While it is true that most of us will not be able to influence events on a global scale, we can still live out the mandate of peace in our own lives. We can try and make our voices heard, that we don't want our representatives in government to support policies of war. We can look to support peaceful resolutions to conflicts that may arise in our own communities. We can be great examples of peace and non-violence in our own lives by forgiving those who have hurt us and love those who have gone astray. Most importantly, we need to pray. Pray for peace, and an end to violence. Pray that world leaders might more often look for peaceful resolutions rather that resorting to armed engagement. Pray that the brave men and women who are still out fighting for our country might be kept safe from harm and be brought home soon. Pray that, in spite of all the turmoil and strife in our world today, God's Spirit of Peace might more and more enter into people's lives and bring about a conversion of hearts.

Interdependencia de Toda la Creación

En octubre 2019 hubo un sínodo de la Iglesia sobre la Amazonía. Quizás no prestamos bastante atención al sínodo cuando los representantes estaban en sesión, y yo creo que los líderes de la Amazonía necesitan aceptar más responsabilidad para cuidar los pulmones de la tierra. Ahora como Iglesia tenemos la oportunidad de luchar "en favor de una ecología integral en la Amazonía."

Necesitamos, como el documento final del sínodo dice, "una conversión personal y comunitaria que nos compromete a relacionarnos armónicamente con la obra creadora de Dios, que es la casa común" de todos nosotros. Necesitamos estructuras en armonía con el cuidado de la creación, y una conversión pastoral que reconozca la interacción de todo lo creado. Hay que luchar contra el pecado ecológico. Por demasiado tiempo hemos tenido una rotura en la relación entre Dios y la Naturaleza que incluye los seres humanos y los no seres humanos. Por demasiado tiempo hemos estado sordos y ciegos al clamor de la Tierra. Tenemos que abrirnos a las distintas voces de todo tipo de persona y de distintas religiones y defender la vida, la integridad de la creación, la paz y el bien común.

Tenemos que reconocer y respetar las voces de las distintas culturas para poder adoptar acciones pastorales en medio de las comunidades indígenas. La Iglesia necesita mantenerse firme en su opción preferencial por los pueblos indígenas. Hay que aprender del otro. Ustedes que vienen de otros países saben cuán importante es su propia cultura y ustedes tienen deseos de seguir costumbres y tradiciones de su propia cultura, aunque estén viviendo en este pais. En el documento estamos animados de hacernos al otro y de estar presentes, respetar y reconocer sus valores, vivir y practicar la inculturación en el anuncio de la Buena Noticia. Expresar y vivir la fe en la Amazonía se encarna no solo en la pastoral sino en las acciones concretas para con el otro, en la atención de la salud, en la educación, y en la solidaridad y apoyo con los mas vulnerables.

Tenemos que crecer en reconocer y vivir la globalización. Todos en el mundo somos hermanos y hermanas, y como San Francisco de Asís tenemos que pensar en lo de la naturaleza como nuestros hermanos. Hay una interdependencia; la región amazónica es esencial para la distribución de las lluvias en las regiones de América del Sur y contribuye a los grandes movimientos de aire alrededor del planeta. Dependemos de esa región para nuestras vidas. Es importante que a la vez que los líderes del mundo escuchen las voces de los que viven allá.

Nosotros debemos escuchar a sus voces también. Todos juntos trabajamos juntos para usar bien lo que la creación nos ofrece. Todo esto nos pide una conversión en nuestra manera de pensar y relacionarnos a otros y a la naturaleza.

Que Dios de Amor sea nuestra guía.
