14th Sunday in Ordinary Time, Year “C”

“Happy And Blessed Are They Who Serve Others”

Once a group of 500 people were attending a seminar on the benefits of service; suddenly the speaker stopped and decided to do a group activity. He started by giving each person a balloon. Each person was then asked to write their names on it using a marker. Then all the balloons were collected and put in another room. The 500 people were then let into the room and asked to find the balloon which had their name written on it within 5 minutes.

Everyone was frantically searching for their name, colliding with each other, pushing around others and there was utter chaos. At the end of the 5 minutes no one could find their own balloon. Then, the speaker asked each person to randomly collect a balloon and give it to the person whose name is written on it. Within minutes everyone had their own balloon. The speaker then said, “This is happening in our lives. Everyone is frantically looking for happiness all around, not knowing where it is.”

It was Aristotle who once said that happiness is that which all human beings seek. We do all we do in life to be happy, because happy moments bring out the best in us and make life healthy, wealthy, and worth living.

Service to others – giving another person her balloon becomes the practical and public face of our belief in eternal and transcendental values. We may experience temporal peace for serving others, yet the reward that comes from God is greater. People who serve become a blessing to others. Blessings follow them, money follows them. They rejoice in adversity since –neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor present things, nor future things, nor powers, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature will be able to separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus our Lord. /Rom 8.38-39/

Praised be Lord Jesus Christ!

ST. MICHAEL PRAYER

Devotions, Explained!

The prayer to St. Michael, composed by Pope Leo XIII, invokes the protection of the archangel Michael in the ongoing spiritual battle for the souls of all mankind. It is commonly said at the end of the rosary and by some parishes after the conclusion of Mass.

Saint Michael the Archangel, defend us in battle. Be our protection against the wickedness and snares of the devil. May God rebuke him, we humbly pray, and do thou, O Prince of the Heavenly Host, by the power of God, cast into hell Satan and all evil spirits who prowl about the world seeking the ruin of souls. Amen.

Please welcome our

Live The Liturgy Inspiration of the Week

As he sends his disciples into the world to proclaim his name, Jesus tells them to be bold. He tells them to be flexible. To be forgiving. To be faithful. As we enter this week, let's remember these instructions. It's good advice, in any century.

Gospel Meditation

Encourage Deeper Understanding of Scripture

In the days after the awful 2020 killing of George Floyd, a Catholic friend remarked, "Racism is today's great evil. We should put all our energy into fighting it." I admired her intuition that the church must stand firmly against evil. Amen, I thought. At the same time, something felt wrong. As months went by, I saw her steadily slide into bitterness and anger. Soon, despondency. She spoke of giving up the fight. Don't we too wonder how to fight evil without losing our joy or energy?

Jesus' words this week help. He says, "Rejoice not that you have power over demons, but that your names are written in heaven" (Luke 10:20). Notice the asymmetry in where he wants our focus: on the latter, not the former. Should we confidently embrace our God-given power to overcome evil? Absolutely. But even more so, we should emphasize the positive element of our relationship to God. It is tempting but dangerous to define ourselves by what we oppose. It is better to define ourselves by--to rejoice in--what we celebrate: in Jesus, God has written our names in heaven. This sustains our battles.

This week, our marching orders are: fight evil. But more deeply, rejoice that God knows and loves us personally, individually. We allow this joyful knowledge to undergird our fight against the darkness of our day. Then we enjoy long-term stability to be cheerful warriors, who never forget the reason for the contests we are called to fight and win: love.

This week we take up the collection for the Church in Central and Eastern Europe. This collection supports the Church in more than 25 countries that struggle to recover from former communist rule. It also aids communities throughout the region that are affected by the war in Ukraine. Funds from this collection support reconstruction, education, formation and poverty outreach. Today we begin to reflect on the Sacrament of the Holy Eucharist. The meals Jesus shared with sinners, and outcasts add to the significance of his farewell meal with his apostles. During this Last Supper, Jesus spelled out how the Father's forgiveness and the New Covenant, the promise of eternal life in Christ, would come about. He spelled it out by word, saying, "This is my body.... This is my blood of the covenant" (Mark 14:22, 24). He spelled it out in action through the sharing of bread and wine. He also spoke of the price to be paid for the new covenant to take place. This meal was a powerful message for the apostles. If they truly heeded his words and actions, if they lived up to what this meal required of them, they, like Jesus, should be ready, if necessary, to lay down their lives for others - as Jesus would do. "While they were eating, Jesus took bread, said the blessing, broke it, and giving it to his disciples, said, 'Take and eat; this is my body.' Then he took a cup, gave thanks, and gave it to them, saying, 'Drink from it, all of you, for this is my blood of the covenant, which will be shed on behalf of many for the forgiveness of sins.'" (Matthew 26:26-28) We will continue to reflect and meditate on the Sacrament of the Holy Eucharist over the course of the next several weeks. Have a happy and blessed week everyone.
